

I'm a Speech-Language Pathologist—What's Your Super Power?

- Unknown

Suzanne Foley's presentation will provide insights into common misconceptions regarding the diagnosis and treatment of auditory and language processing disorders, auditory memory and attention deficit. Topics to be covered include diagnostic criteria for each disorder and specific treatment options.

Lindsey Pfladderer's session provides a brief overview of hearing loss and how it affects children in the classroom, as well a crash course in technology commonly used with those who have hearing loss. This is paramount when forming productive relationship when working with our Deaf and Hard of Hearing clients.

Allison Winiger and Stephanie Wieczorek's session provides a brief overview of hearing loss and how it affects children in the classroom, as well a crash course in technology commonly used with those who have hearing loss. Tips on sharing information with teachers and troubleshooting equipment are discussed, with emphasis on when it is best to defer to the TOD or audiologist.

ABOUT THE SPEAKERS

Suzanne Foley, MS, CCC-A is an experienced audiologist who specializes in the diagnosis and treatment of auditory processing disorders (APD). In addition to providing clinical services in her own private practice and at the VA Medical Center, she also teaches about APD for distance learning AuD programs and is a national speaker for an education and research company.

Lindsey Pfladderer, MA CCC-SLP is a school-based Speech-Language Pathologist working at Indiana School for the Deaf. Lindsey states, "Being able to have this opportunity to be able to work with and learn from my colleagues at ISD and be immersed in the Deaf culture every day has been a once in a lifetime experience for me. I hope to be able to share some of the knowledge that I have learned with you today in order to utilize in the future when working with individuals who are Deaf or Hard of Hearing."

Allison Winiger, AuD, CCC-A, is an assistant clinical professor in the Speech and Hearing Sciences Department at Indiana University. She is contracted out to the Indianapolis Public School (IPS) system and serves as one of their full-time educational audiologists. Dr. Winiger's professional interests include pediatric audiology and rehabilitation, as well as educating teachers and parents about the needs of children with hearing loss.

Stephanie Wieczorek, AuD, CCC-A is an assistant clinical professor in the Speech and Hearing Sciences Department at Indiana University. She is contracted out to the Indianapolis Public Schools (IPS) system and serves as one of their full-time educational audiologists. Dr. Wieczorek's professional interests include pediatric diagnostics and amplification, cochlear implants, and teaching self-advocacy skills for children with hearing loss.
